TO ATTACK VLADIVOSTOCK

The Japanese are Planting Heavy Guns on Islands in the Yalu River--Another Armada

To Dash for Vladivostok

Hakodate, April 25th.—Important preparations are being made here for a sudden dash across the Japan sea, on Vladivostok.

A fleet of ten transports is being loaded with troops and a squadron of warships is lying off port to convey the troops. It is presumed the objective point is Vladivostok.

This move has been expected for some time, as Admiral Togo of the Japanese fleet lifted some time ago an attack on Vladivostok after the Port Arthur fleet had been reduced to an ineffective condition.

Japs Fortifying the Yalu

Chefoo, April 25th.—Seven guns were landed on three of the Yalu islands last Friday by the Japanese. They were loaded on specially constructed rafts at Sandun, and by this time heavy artillery in position commands Manchuria along the Yalu from Antung ten miles north to Taku on the south branch toward Yenchow. On Wednesday the Japanese brought heavy artillery by way of the Salge, road up to Chang Sheng, with the evident intention of commanding the roads across the Yalu leading to the Manchurian town of Chanchen.

The First and Sixteenth Artillery Regiments are distributed at points now being fortified, which are practically the only available places where an army of any size can hope to cross the river.

Repered Attic : on Kuropatkin

St. Petersburg, April 22.—Rumors are circulating here that two beggars attempted the assassination of General Kuropatkin, when he was in New Chwang a few days ago.

It is said the beggars succeeded in approaching the general and were talking to him, when a guard noticed one of them put his hand inside his robe.

The men were seized and searched and knives were found on them. It is said that the men were Japanese.

Submarines in the Baltic

London, April 22.—A special cable today to the London Daily News from its correspondent in Stockholm, says:—

"It is reported in responsible quarters here that certain strange craft have been sighted off the coast of Sweden. From the reports it is believed they are Japanese submarines. When last sighted they were off the fortified harbor of Forsand, in the island of Gotland, in the centre of the Baltic sea."

From St. Petersburg come similar reports with the added information that the Russian Admiralty are considerably alarmed for the safety of the Baltic fleet.

A Japanese Reverse Reported

Paris, April 23.—Information reaching the highest quarters here tends to confirm the report that a serious engagement has occurred on the Yalu river, involving a reverse to a Japanese column. The information is credited in influential quarters.

Port Arthur Has the Report

Port Arthur, April 22.—News was received here of the complete destruction of a Japanese column on the Yalu river. No details were obtained.

The rumor is current in news circles that Russia intends opening negotiations with forcible asking a permission to allow the Black Sea fleet to pass the Dardanelles. Should this be refused, it is possible the Black Sea fleet may proceed to the East by way of Good Hope, accompanied by a large fleet of colliers. The vessels in the fleet are provided with cable apparatus for taking on coal from a collier towed astern, while steaming at full speed ahead. This trip would necessarily be slow, as the colliers could proceed no faster than the speed of the colliers, but it is calculated the trip could be made in two months.

An important engagement is reported to have taken place on Thursday near Yenchow, in which a considerable number of Russians were made prisoners.

Another Armada

Paris, April 25.—Two important pieces of news are current here to-day. One is that the Chinese have definitely decided to cast in their lot with Japan.

As soon as the campaign on land develops to the proper point, they will be ready to make a joint attack on the Russians. The other piece of news is a revealed story that the Russians will bring the Black Sea fleet through the Dardanelles, which comes unofficially from St. Petersburg. Early in July the Black Sea fleet will make the Mediterranean and will then be joined by the Black Sea fleet, and all of the Russian sea strength will proceed in one mighty Armada to the scene of war and destroy the Japanese navy.

WAR NOTES

A correspondent of the Times at Nieu Chwang says a messenger, who has just returned from the Yalu river, reports that the Japanese outposts are near the Russian entrenchments, with large bodies of troops five miles distant. He also states that the Russians are firing north across the river in front of the Chinese, but they were reported to have shown themselves in force on various occasions, and afterwards quickly disappearing.

The Times correspondent sent the following from Nieu Chwang: The newspaper correspondents accredited to the Russian forces who left for Mukden yesterday had to bind themselves not to divulge any news respecting the results of engagements with the enemy, or the loss suffered by the Russians, or other information which may awaken public uneasiness. The Russians have issued placards in Chinese, explaining away the Japanese advances, detailing Russian successes and magnifying the Russian strength and prophesying victory for Russia.

The Russians who are marauding the territory west of the Yalu river, sent out foraging parties of fifty Cossacks, each man counting on the capture of one bullock daily. By this means thousands of cattle were driven into the hands of the Russians, and the Russian troops were given. The fact Mukden last month, for which neither receipts nor cash were given. The Russians are also requisitioning cattle from the Russian generals, and renewing their demands on the Chinese troops in Kirin and Fengtsi in the provinces to disarm and disarm their uniforms.

The Times has the following from its correspondent in St. Petersburg: According to the reports to the Russian press, General Linerich is keeping a strict watch upon the behavior of the Chinese troops. During a recent visit to King King he met representatives of the viceroys of Chihli and heard from him that the concentration of troops under General Ma was designed to protect the Hsin Mien railway. He requested him to tell the viceroys that it would be advisable for him to withdraw his troops from the Hsin Mien railway for a distance of at least 300 or 400 versts, otherwise, according to Viceroy Alexia's order, the Russian detachments would be sent to drive the Chinese back into the heart of their own country. He sent to drive the Chinese back. The repeated disasters to the Russian fleet in the far east are plainly producing a most depressing effect in Russian commercial circles, and the bulk of the trading community would be glad to be out of the struggle to-morrow on any reasonable terms. Business men point out even in Hsin Mien in Manchuria, Japan has Korea to fall back upon, from which it will be no easy matter to dislodge her. They ask where Japan, if beaten in the long run, can obtain means to repay Russia the tributes spread over a long period does not attract them. Moreover they do not share the confidence of the military circles as to the final outcome of operations in the field.

The Japanese are reported to have bombarded Nieu Chwang and to have landed troops who will probably endeavor to effect a junction with the forces supposed to have landed near the mouth of the Yalu river three days ago.

ODDFELLOWS ATTEND SERVICE

The local Oddfellows celebrated the 85th anniversary of the institution of the order yesterday by a church parade to Strathcona.

The members and visiting brethren gathered at Howard's hall about 2:30 and with Dr. McIntosh acting as marshal and led by the Union band, marched to the Strathcona lodge.

At the Strathcona station the order of march was resumed to the hall of the Strathcona lodge, where the visitors were joined by the members of the local lodge.

The march was then resumed to the Methodist church, where Rev. Finch delivered an interesting and helpful address. The lessons of the sermon were drawn from the story of David and Jonathan and the incident of the good Samaritan.

During the course of the service, Miss Wilson sang a beautiful solo very acceptably.

The Edmonton lodge returned by train about six o'clock.

There were between 170 and 180 members of the Edmonton lodge and visitors in line. The Strathcona members numbered about twenty. The number of visitors was unusually large showing the large number of people now in town from other countries and provinces.

THE LUMSDEN FLOOD

A press dispatch from Lumsden, a short distance from Regina on the Prince Albert branch, thus describes the flood which occurred there last week when the Qu'Appelle overflowed.

"This village is experiencing a flood such as the oldest residents have never before seen. At about five o'clock last evening the Wascana creek broke away, and the waters combining with the already overflowing Qu'Appelle river, about one mile west of the village caused the trouble. The water rose so gradually that it gave ample warning and any families living in low parts had plenty of time to remove to places of safety. Only a few, however, have so far found removal necessary.

During last night and early morning several parties were busy saving horses and cattle to places of safety. A boat was constantly in use for taking removing parties backward and forward to different parts of the village. However, there is plenty of dry ground in the village yet and should the depth of the water not increase beyond all the expectations of the knowing ones, there will be little damage done.

The road bed of the railway is secured in several places and much damage has been done to it. It is impossible to state at the present time what damage has already been done, or is likely to result, but as far as is known, it is slight.

"Hall, McNab & Co. millers, were forced to close down this morning, owing to the engine room being flooded. The Regina Lumber & Supply Co. have had considerable trouble and difficulty in keeping their lumber in town, but have it now secured.

"At the moment of writing, eight p.m. the water is gradually rising and it is difficult to say what may yet result."

AS OTHERS SEE US

From the Glasgow News:

The tide of immigration is now pouring through here on its way to the Canadian Northwest," says a cable from Montreal. "We know that cable; it has slowly worked its way into our affections, so that now we should lament if it were missing in the spring; almost as much as we should lament the absence of the lark song in the 'lift.' We know (far off) the type of Canadian journalist who despatches it, for whom one An-chor liner at the wharf is a 'tide of immigration,' and the first load of Scandinavians for Saskatchewan don't simply 'pass through here' on their way to the West, but 'pour.' The blight of big words, which began in the United States, where it goes on raging with violence, has infected some sections of the Canadian press and whoever would arrive at a reasonable idea of the truth regarding anything discussed or reported by Canadian journalists should add a little salt. They are nice men, their intent is not to deceive, but their surroundings are so great and majestic that they cannot restrain their tropes when treating of the attractions of their country. It is a country in which the wheat fields are always 'golden' (though there are such things as hailstorms that render them occasionally extremely and disastrously leaden); in which free land is invariably 'limitless' (as of course it is though not exactly in the middle of Winnipeg or Edmonton), in which 'there is room for all' and no necessity for poorhouses, though it should be added that the square peg does not fit in a round hole and there are more than anywhere else.

This exuberance sometimes influences the wrong kind of man too, and attracts out to Canada persons who expect too much as a consequence of taking printed matter too seriously, and people who by nature and the circumstances of their lives are quite unfitted to begin a career in a new land. The best immigrant Canada can get, the immigrant to whom she will certainly give a loving and generous foster mother is the intelligent, healthy, steady farm worker, male or female, or that adaptable man who, with a head and resource, can 'turn his hand to anything' in the way of manual labor. Both classes, it is true, are in demand even in this country, but Canada offers them far more for their services than the best they can get in Scotland. Men with some capital and the shrewdness to see it most profitably employed, are also wanted in Canada but with them we have not at the moment anything to do. The man who should not go to Canada, attracted there by big words and irresponsible ones, is easily discoverable by the immigration agents at Quebec or Halifax, but by the time he has reached there it is too late to turn him, and he may as well complete his experience. First of all, the spoiled boy; the useless 'drifter' whose parents have had more money and affection than sense; who has no object in life, and no enthusiasm for anything but cigarette-smoking and tar-lounging, should stay at home. He might, there is a remote possibility, have sense thrashed into him in the New World, but the chances are nearly all against it.

There is in some quarters the curious delusion that it is the 'failures' of life in this land who emigrate and make the best emigrants. As a matter of fact the larger proportion of those who emigrate, not from Britain alone, but from all parts of Europe to Canada, are the pick of the people. That they should cut the painter and set sail is proof that they have imagination, enthusiasm, and enterprise—no bad basis on which to build up a new country. The fact that they may not have much money is of no particular moment; the fact that it is limited with them is the very thing to make them the more active and enterprising. The 'failure' generally is ill-advised to go to Canada, and he who is ill-advised if he has no success in life has been due to what can best be described by the term 'lack of character.' The man who can't do his own thinking, who lacks initiative, whose efforts to cheat nature out of a living have always been attended by disaster, is not likely to find nature more generous in Canada than in Scotland. He should stay at home and go on depending on his relatives and friends. The young person with the 'big head'—in other words an overweening conceit of himself—should also stay at home, for Canada has a supreme contempt for the 'big head,' which she can diagnose in a stranger with incredible quickness. The gentleman who lives for sport and entertainment, who, after his work's done, and the common product of city life, the young person who loves the clamor and grime of streets, the music hall and the beer-shop, has always difficulty in finding anything to interest him in the country or in country life, and dreads solitude like a disease, for emigration to a land of 'magical' distances, and comparatively few music halls.

THE C.N.R. PLANS

The announcement made in Saturday's issue of the Bulletin that the Canadian Northern Railway had filed plans in the land office here for a line from Birch Lake to Pelly, came as a surprise to the readers, and many have been the expressions of opinion as to what the move would do.

The new line can scarcely be called a parallel to the C.P.R. proposed line, as, according to the announcement, this line is expected to pursue an almost direct westward course from Pelly to the C.N.R. projected line in a northerly course from the same point.

The prevalent view of the movement is that it evidences the intention of the Canadian Northern company to push the completion of their line to Pelly and to use the new branch as an inlet to the Beaver Lake district and the Central Alberta of the C. & E. in Central Alberta. The route proposed traverses the large and thickly settled districts of Delamater and Battle River, passes within a short distance of the centres of settlement about Beaver Lake and Lake district and even the Birch Lake district. The southern extremity thus terminates in a thickly settled country, while the eastern half of the line passes through a well developed district.

The office was closed at 12 o'clock, and the robbery was discovered on the return at 1:20. Winter has gone at last, and the ice has gone out of the river. Great quantities of ice heaped on the banks, melting fast. The water rose very high on Monday last, and what had evidently been an ice jam further up the river, came sweeping down.

The ferry boat here was carried away and broken to pieces. A new one is being built.

The weather is splendid, and everyone is busy repairing fences, getting plows put in order, etc.

Mr. D. Desjarlais is about to make an addition to his house, which was too small to accommodate all the travellers in this district, but it is not decided yet.

An effort was made by the authorities to have the sawdust, etc., left by the sawmills on the ice, cleared away, but they were too late, as the ice moved and carried it away.

Mr. Richardson's sawmill shut down last week and they had to cross the river on rafts. He has had a most successful winter's work.
